Student guide to accessing and reviewing electronic feedback in Turnitin

with the Turnitin Feedback Studio

About this guide

This guide describes how to review the different types of online feedback for an assignment submitted to Turnitin, if your lecturer is marking your work electronically using the Feedback Studio.

It also describes how you can download your marked paper.

When is my mark and feedback made available?

Your mark and feedback only becomes available on a set date and time – referred to in Turnitin as the Post Date.

For assignments, this is usually 15 working days after the submission deadline.

Remember:

All grades provided to you in Blackboard are provisional and have not been ratified. This means that they can be subject to change.

How to access your feedback

Although you can get there via My Grades, the simplest way to access feedback in Turnitin is to go directly to the Turnitin assignment, following exactly the same route that you took when submitting your work: locate the assignment on your Blackboard course, and click on View / Complete.

This opens the 'Turnitin Inbox'. If the View button is a bright blue, then your marks and/or feedback are ready to view. Click View to open the Turnitin Feedback Studio in a new window.

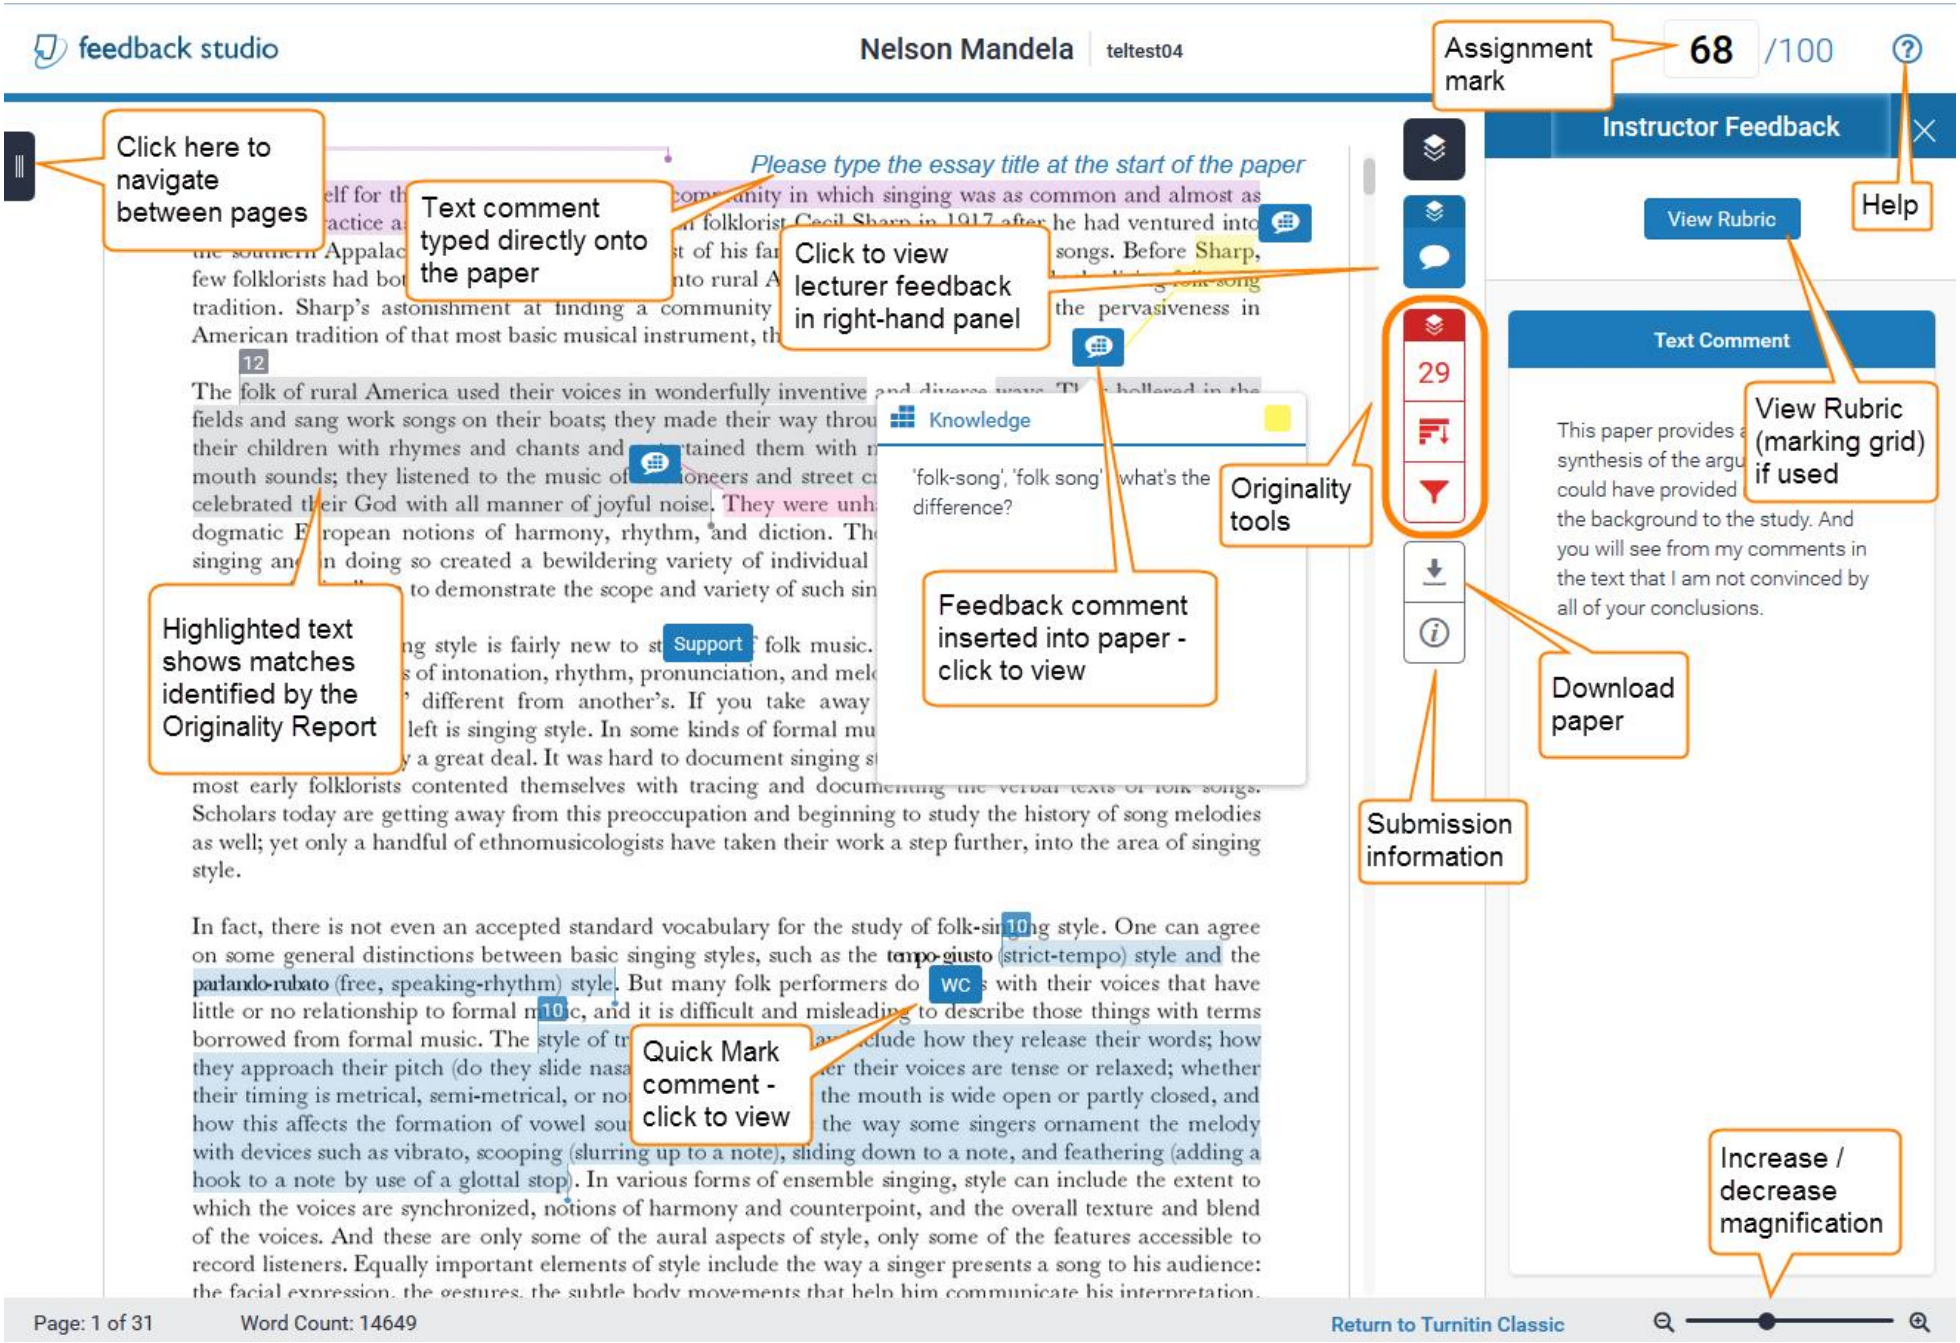
Overview of assignment feedback in Turnitin Feedback Studio



Types of feedback available in the sidebar

Important Note:

There are different options lecturers can use to provide feedback on your assignments.

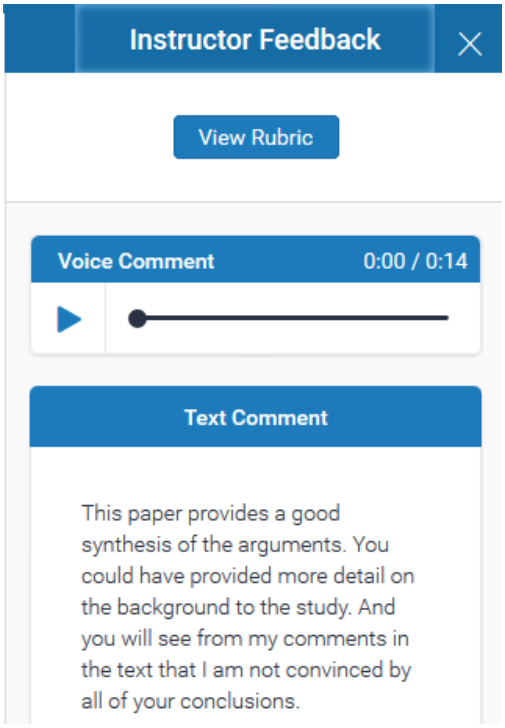
Tutors may not use all of these features on all assignments.

Instructor Feedback

Click on the speech bubble icon in the right-hand menu to open the 'Instructor Feedback' panel.

The Text Comment area provides a space for a summary on your assignment as a whole.

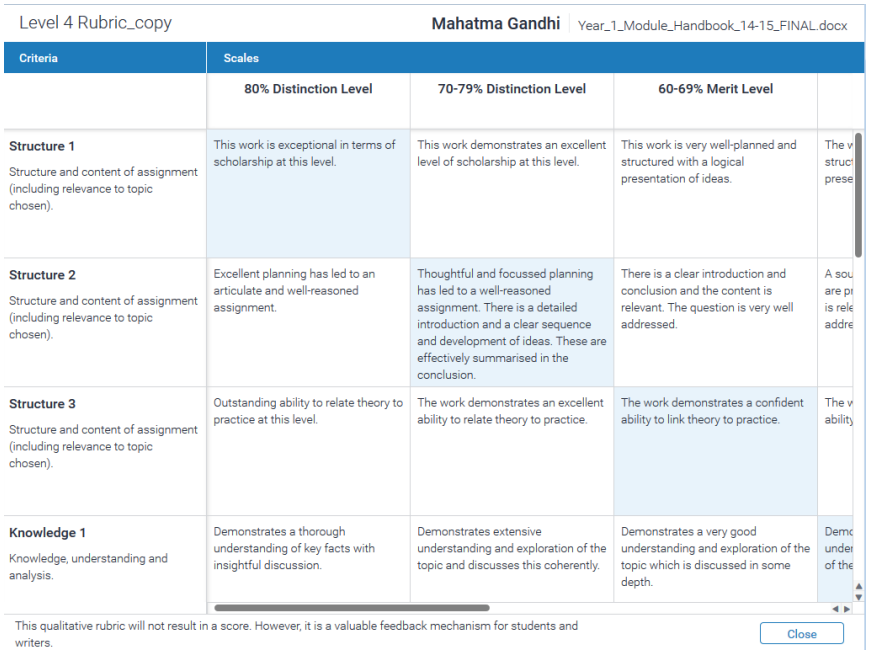
If a Voice Comment has been left, click the Play button to listen to audio feedback from your lecturer.



Rubric

The Rubric scorecard shows the assessment criteria used to mark your assignment. You can use this to see how you were marked on each of the criteria used.

Comments inserted in the text of your paper may be linked to one of the Rubric criteria.



Download your marked paper

You can download a copy of your marked paper to keep on your computer or print out.

This will include the written feedback, comments and rubric contained in the online marked assignment.

Click on the Download button on the toolbar.

Click on Current View from the menu that appears.

A PDF copy of your assignment – with feedback comments - will be downloaded to your computer. When viewing the PDF, feedback is listed at the end of the document.

Late submissions

If you submitted your work after the deadline, your mark will be adjusted in accordance with University policy. In some schools, if your mark is subject to a late submission penalty, the mark shown in Turnitin will not be changed – you will need to look in My Grades to see the adjusted mark, along with the reason for the adjustment. If in doubt, please check with your Student Support Centre.
